About Belle Meade.

General W. H. Jackson, the proprietor of the Belle Meade stock farm near Nashville, is here. General Jackson is a brother of Justice Howell E. Jackson, of the supreme court, and came here to see the justice sworn in.

In speaking of his stock farm today General Jackson said:

"It is true the public thinks my farm is perfect, but I don't, and I spend on it from $50,000 to $75,000 every year. There is a park of five hundred acres filled with squirrels, partridges and three hundred deer. Of couse my especial pets are the stallions, a galaxy of eight that are known throughout Christendom—Enquirer, Luke Blackburn, Iroquois, Tremont, Inspector B., imported Royalist and imported Great Tom. In no one place in the world are their equals. Then there are one hundred and twenty of the greatest thoroughbred mares in America at Belle Meade. Since 1884 I have sold $475,000 worth of yearlings that have won for their owners in purses and stakes $2,225,000."

That Clock Fake. During the past few days there has been very much unfavorable comment upon the senate for setting the hands of the clock back more than an how last Saturday, in order to conclude the business before that body. Under the law the term of congress and of the president expires at 12 o'clock noon on March 4th. By setting the hands of the clock back last Saturday the new president was not sworn in until after 1 o'clock, though the senate clock pointed to the hour of noon when the ceremonies took place. The day was bitterly cold and the troops congregated on the outside for the great procession were compelled to back more than an hour last Saturday, in and the troops congregated on the outside for the great procession were compelled to remain in a blizzard for hours, awaiting the senate. As a consequence thousands of people who attended the inauguration ceremonies are now ill and many who were exposed to the cold of that day are not expected to live. Indeed there have been a number of deaths already. The Washington newspapers are very severe in their criticism upon the senate, and it is generally believed that they are correct.

COMMITTEE ASSIGNMENTS.

Washington, March 8.—Members of the democratic caucus committee were in session today six and a half hours and then adjourned without completing the task of making up the committee list. The next meeting will be held subject to the call of Mr. Gorman, and it is not unlikely that if the session of the senate tomorrow is short, the committee may get together again in the afternoon. Some headway has been made, but the committee has only begun to see its way clear to a successful performance of the work that is before it. One thing that can be stated with positiveness is that nothing has yet been done in the matter of electing officers of the senate, and it is doubtful if anything of this kind will be taken up for many a day.

It is understood that while precedents of the senate will be adhered to in many respects the chairmanships will not Washington, March 8.-Members of the many respects the chairmanships will no go in every case to the ranking senator the democratic membership of the commit-tees in the last senate. of the scheme which will put senators at the head of committees who were not at the head of the recent minority list, but who, by reason of their qualification are best fitted to do the work that will come before those committees.

It is also not unlikely that one or more minority committees.

It is also not unlikely that one or more minority committees of the senate may be wiped out, and if this is done, it will reduce the number of chalrmanships the republicaus will have.

Nothing definite, however, has been accomplished in any direction.

A prominent member of the caucus committee said this afternoon that until the senate was organized, at least so far as committees were concerned, there would be no action upon any nomination the president might send in. For this reason it was imperative that the caucus committee should do its work as fast as possible. If the president should send in any nominations tomorrow they will be compelled to lay over under this construction until complete committees have been agreed upon. The session of the senate, therefore, will be brief, unless the body sees fit to take up the resolutions that were introduced on Monday at the opening session. This may precipitate a discussion relative to the legality of such legislation in an extra session called for the purpose of confirming presidential nominations.

The republicans are resting on their oars, simply avaiting the final action by the democrats. After they have been made acquaisted with the intentions of the majority. Mr. Allison's committee will resume its labors and endeavor to provide for those republicans who are entitled to minority chairmanships.

A CITY IN TWO STATES.

Virginia Claims That Tennessee Has No Right to Bristol.

Washirigton, Masch S.—The state of Virginia and the state of Tennessee are parties to a suit which occupied practically all the time of the United States supreme court today. Virginia is seeking to secure a large strip of land now within the boundary of Tennessee, but claimed by the old dominion to be part of its territory. The tract in question is a wedge-shaped strip of land stretching across the northern border of Tennessee, adjoining Virginia on the south. It is I13 miles in length, two miles in width at its eastern and eight miles in whith at its western extremity.

The country is mostly sparsely settled, but it is in the line of material development of southwestern Virginia and eastern Tennessee. One of the towns in dispute is Bristol, Tenn., which has grown greatly in the last decade and enjoys two municipal governments, according to the present boundary line between Tennessee and Virginia, Main street separating the Tennessee section of the town from the Virginia section. If Virginia should win the suit the whole town would be part of its territory.

Attorney General Ayers is the principal representative of Virginia before the court and associated with him are Attorney General Scott and William Rhea. Attorney General G. W. Pickle represented the state of Tennessee, with A. S. Collier. Abram L. Demoss and C. J., St. John as his associates.

The claim of Virginia to this territory is based on the allegation that the boundary she now contends for was recognized by the state of North Carolina as the true line of division between the two states and that when North Carolina ceded what is now the state of Tennessee came into the union the newly admitted state claimed and secured more territory than belonged to it. Tennessee asserts that the line as now run is the true one.

THE CONDITION OF THE PENITENTIARY

Shown Up by the Investigating Committee A Terrible Condition of Affairs Said to Exist.

The Tennessee legislature reassembled to-day after nearly a month's recess. In the house the proceedings were sen-sational. Speaker Davis, who was recently disbarred at Memphis from the practice of his profession for retaining $1,250 of a client's money, called the house to order and asked that a committee be selected to investigate the matter. The house, however, was almost unani-mous in the opinion that there had been an mpartial investigation, and so adopted a resolution requesting Speaker Davis to re-sign. He declined on the ground that he had appealed the case to the supreme court and to resign would be a tacit admission of guilt. Mr. Jones, of Hardeman, then of-

Be it resolved by the house of representatives of the state of Tennessee, That the Hon. Ralph Davis, speaker of the said house of representatives, having been found guilty by the circuit court of Shelby county of certain grave charges, of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, be removed from the office of speaker of the house of representatives of the state of Tennessee, and said office of speaker is hereby declared vacant.

There was but little opnosition to the reservence. There was but little opposition to the resolution and after a lengthy discussion it was adopted by a vote of 72 to 9, a number of members being excused from voting. The house then unanimously elected Hon. Julius A. Trousdale, of Sumner county, to the speakership chair. Many of Mr. Davis's best friends voted for both resolu-

The Condition of the Prison

The subcommittee that visited the branch prisons made a lengthy report today and scores the penitentiary management from start to finish.

The various branch prisons are declared to be in a very fifthy condition. At Coal Creek the bedding is extremely fifthy, and is changed only every three or four months. The convicts had no night clothes, sheets The convicts had no night clothes, sheets or pillows, underclothing or socks. Prisoners were covered with running sores. The conditions at the other prisons are not much better. Feeding costs only 3 or 4 cents a day. Prisoners had to carry on their hands through the day the dirt, grit, water and smoke of the mine, their sodden piece of corn bread and fat meat, which constitutes their danner. Brutal and degrading vices prevailed at most of the prisons. The management at Coal Creek especially, is condemned. The prisoners at Inmans make no complaints.

The committee, summing up says: "We find, on the whole, that the condition and management of the convicts is this state for the last two years have not been a credit to the state by any means but to the contrary, and the committee believes that the public, or at least the legislature and executive conscience need to be awakened to the distractory and the colors.

public, or at least the legislature and executive conscience need to be awakened to the disgraceful neglects and cruel outrages that are perpetrated in the name and under the protection of the state. In the enforcement of the crimnal law in Tennessee today these better principles seem to be entirely ignored and our penal institutions, instead of tending to reform, are veritable nurseries of crime, anarchism and degredation, and this to an extent that we are failing to appreciate, and with a resultant economic loss and cost that would profoundly astonish us if we could know the exact figures. Attention is called to the fact that something over five hundred prisoners enter and leave our penitentiary every year. In a period of an ordinary generation of thirty years, some fifteen thousand, a small arm. Many find their way back and none practically are reformed, but most all are cultivated in crime, contaminated, debased, degraded and embittered."

GOVERNOR TURNEY VERY LOW.

He Has Suffered a Relapse and Is Not Ex-pected to Live Two Weeks Longer. Nashville, Tenn., March 8.-Hon. Peter Turney, the bedridden governor of this state, is hardly expected to live more than two weeks longer. Governor Turney was inaugurated in a sick bed in January last. He has had a severe relapse and the genwal belief is he will never come to the capital.

A sensational rumor that Governor Turney was dead reached here this morning. Both nouses of the legislature immediately adjourned. The rumor proved to be untrue, but Governor Turney's condition is precarious.

MAKING KNOWN THEIR WANTS.

Hundreds of Persons Anxious to See President Cleveland.

Washington, March 8.—The period of perfunctory visiting has passed and the greater number of politicians who called on President Cleveland today were bent on business. Each had his axe to grind, either for himself or for some constituent and application for offices were filed by the score. The president was up betimes and when he entered his private office there were a number of cards on his table with men whose names they bore waiting expectantly in the cabinet room. Mr. Cleveland saw nearly all who came and devoted a few minutes to the characteristics of the care who were in a hurry saw Private Secretary Thurber, and he soon had his hands full attending to their wants.

Wants.

Mr. Cleveland was too busy upstairs in the forenoon receiving the more distinguished visitors to see the general public, and the east room contingent went away disappointed A Virginia delegation, consisting of Senator Hunter and Representatives Wise and Meridith presented to the president the name of Judge John Goode, of Virginia, for the solicitor generaliship. Mr. Goode was solicitor general under the first Cleveland administration, and after Mr. Cleveland's election last November his name was prominently mentioned in connection with the attorney generalship in the cahinet.

Other callers were the new assistant secretary of state, Josiah Oniner, Secator Martin, of Kansas; Messrs. Roach, of North Dakoca; Wante, or Canforna; torodon, of Georgia; Mills, of Texas; Peffer, of Kansas; Irby, of South Carolina, with Governor Tillman and Senator Call, of Florida; Speaker Crisp, Representatives Hatch and Dockery, of Missouri; Culberson, of Texas; Chipman, of Michigan; Brookshire, Martin and Bretz, of Indiana; Parson, of Ohio; Holman, of Indiana; Oates, of Alabama; Breckinridge, Dickerson and Ellis, of Kentucky; O'Neil of Pennsylvania; Curtis and Bently of New York; Weadock of Michagan; Catchings, of Mississippi; McCann, and Binck, son; Senator Butler and Representatives S. Johnson and Brawler, and a South Carolina delegation; ex-Chief Swittler, of the bureau of statistica, who wanted his former position, and John H. Oberly, of Illinois, ex-civil service commissioner.

Shortly after 12 o'clock the president went downstairs and shook hands with a crowd of people in the east room, about four hundred in number.

One of the earliest callers this morning was Rev. Dr. O'Gorman, professor of ecclesiastical history at the Catholic university of America, who presented to Private Secretary Thurber a letter from Archbishop Satolli, papal legate to America, congratulating Mr. Cleveland on his accession to the presidency, "particularly in the name of his holiness, the poop." The letter was written in finglish on an official letterhead of the Catholic university.

Senator Lindsey, of Kentucky, came with C. T. Allen, of his state, and asked Mr. Cleveland to appoint the latter assistant postmaster general.

Chief Justice Bennett, of Kentucky, who came with Congressman Stone, merely paid his respects to Mr. Cleveland. Judge Bennett's claim will probably be pressed for the circuit judgeship left vacant by the promotion of Judge Jackson to the supreme bench.

egation came with ex-Congressman Scott Wike, who wants to be comptroller of the currency.

Congressman Amos J. Cummings introduced to Mr. Cleveland a delegation of union labor men representing the typographical organizations. They were Edward Craft, of Philadelphia; W. E. Shields, of Washington union, and John L. Burke, of Big Six of New York, and they entered a vigorous prytest against the appointment of C. W. Fdwards, of Wilmington, Del., to the office of public printer. They said that Edwadrs was not a union printer; that he was opposed to laboring organizations and that he was generally unfitted for the office. A hot fight for this office has already begin. Ex-Congressman Owen Scott is one of the most prominent candidates.

Later in the day Senator Palmer and Representative Williams, of Illinois, called with Judge Browning, of Benton, Ill., whom they urged for the commissionership of the land office. It is said that Judge Browning was favorably considered for the same position when Mr. Cleveland accepted Commissioner Sparks's resignation during his first term. Ex-Governor Gray, of Indiana, called at 2 o'clock and saw the president immediately. He remained with Mr. Cleveland more than half an hour, and when he left the white house, smiled knowingly. When asked whether he had been given the Mexican mission it is said that Governor Gray acknowledged to intimate friends that he would be nominated for the position, Secretary Carlisle did nothing but receive callers. Assistant Secretary Spaulding signed the department mail as acting secretary, and Assistant Secretary Lambertson was designated by Secretary Carlisle the first thing this morning to sign warrants covering in and taken out money from the treasury.

The mail this morning was so large that it was taken to the department rooms in a great basket. It measured several bushels, and nearly all of the letters were applications and endorsements for office. Kentucky was prominent, both in those who called personally and those who sent letters. A neat printed form has been prepared which will be sent to each applicant, acknowledging the receipt of his application. Five additional clerks have been detailed for the work in the appointment division to assist in keeping the work up.

Secretary Carlisle has accepted the resignation of Colonel J. B. Weber, commissioner of immigration at New York. He is the only prominent official who has formally resigned, though several in the treasury department building have placed their resignations at the disposal of Secretary Carlisle.

Gresham Also Receiving.

Gresham Also Receiving. From an early hour this morning until lunch time Secretary Gresham was en-gaged at the state department receiving visgaged at the state department receiving visitors. Mr. Andrews, the secretary's son-inlaw, who came on from Chicago to spend the day with him, aided him in receiving and disposing of callers.

Developments in the matter of appointments that have been determined on were meager. Semi-official assurance was given that ex-Governor I. P. Gray, of Indiana, would be given the Mexican mission and Patrick A. Collins, of Massachusetts, made consul general at London.

Josiah Quincy, the new first assistant secretary of state, spent some time in consultation with Secretary Wharton. He will not take hold, however, until next Monday.

Notifications were sent to all the foreign legations in Washington of the appointment of Judge Gresham as secretary of state and inviting the ministers to attend a reception to be given by the new secretary tomorrow at noon in the diplomatic parlor.

They began to climb the steps of the department of justice at an early hour and kept it up until the office closed. Most of them came in delegations and as a rule they left bundles of papers containing applications and endorsements for office for some friend. But few resignations have so far been received by Attorney General Oney, but among those handed in have been the resignations of Mr. Alrich as solicitor general of the United States and of Mr. Cotton as assistant attorney general.

Postmaster General Bissell arrived at Postmaster General Bissell arrived at his desk promptly at 9 o'clock this morning. Callers kept up an incessant stream until after noon. Among the prominent stream until after noon. Among the prominent senators who called were Messrs. Jones, of Arkansas; Mills, McPherson, Gordon, Coke and Voorhees. There is no tangible information obtainable in regard to the candidates for the four places of assistant postmaster general. The most reliable information makes Robert Maxwell, of Buffalo, a prominent candidate for fourth assistant, who has the disposal of the fourth-class postoffices, which was formerly the duty of the first assistant. The reception of visitors occupied the greater portion of the time of Secretary of Agriculture Morton today and he found little or no time to devote to official matters, the greater portion of these falling to Assistant Secretary Willetts.

This will increase the free gold in the treasury to $2,125,000. Secretary Carlisle has taken no steps to issue the bonds and has not indicated what policy he will pursue.

Bristol, Tenn., March 8.—(Special.)—A peculiar and perhaps fatal accident befell F. C. Harrington, a former general passenger agent of the South Atlantic and Ohio railway. He was at the Hotel Intermont at Bigstone Gap, of which he is now proprietor, when the sad accident happened. This morning he was sitting in as chair in one of the rooms of the hotel and was clipping some paper with a pair of scissors. He started to lean back, lost his balance and fell. Mr. Harrington would bleed to death.

The gentleman, who gave your reporter his information, states that when he left the gap, the physicians were talking of cutting around the scissors and closing the arteries before attempting to draw them out. Dr. M. M. Butler, surgeon of the South Atlantic and Ohio road, left here at noon and is in attendance upon the wounded man. At last accouts he was considered to be in a very dangerous condition.

Though late reports say Mr. Harrington's physicians say he is is resting easy now.

For several months James Walker has been paying attention to Miss Addie Drake, the charming young daughter of Joseph Drake, an influential citizen of Bewling Green. It is stated that the young cotple were betrothed, fast evering a young man, aged eighteen, named James Hoffa, a neighbor of Miss Drake, and a bright young fellow, induced the young lady to accompany him to church. Walker called at Miss Drake's house later in the evening, and was informed by Mr. Drake of her whereabouts.

Determined upon yongcance, he sought to meet his rival, and succeeded in locating him at Rodenbarger's restaurant, where he stopped with some Walker followed him into the restaurant, said convivenced reprimanding him for his conduct. Hoffa, comprehending the state of agitation his assailant was in, started to leave the room, when Walker, with almost lightning rapidity, grabbed a hatchet and dealt Hoffa a terrible blow on the head, sending the blade into his brain. The young man fell in a dying stupor to the floor. Shortly afterwards he was taken home, where he now lies hanging between life and death, with no prospects of his recovery.

HIS LIFE GROUND OUT.

A Pacultar Accident by Which a Greenville Man Lost His Life. Greenville, S. C., March 8 .- (Special.)-Will Langston, a factory operative from Clifton, S. C., was run over by a train on the Richmond and Danville railroad in the freight yards of this city about 9 o'clock last night and was instantly killed. The body was terribly mutilated and was scarcely recognizable.

Reinach, he said, used the Panama money to pay his personal debts. Questioned as to his relations with Arton, the lobbyist, De Lessey's said:

"I had no direct dealing with the man. He came to me with Reinach as a representative of Floquet. Both said that the campaign in Nord against Houlanger was very setive and that I could render Floquet a great service by setting aside 300,000 francs for purposes which he would indicate. I replied that Floquet himself must make the request. The next day Arton told me that Floquet wished to see me. I met Floquet an hour later and he repeated to me less bluntly what Arton had already said for him if I could not make the sacrifice, he said, his feelings toward the company would not be changed, but he was anxious to have me help him in the matter as fur as I feit able to do so. I thought it would not be prudent to refuse to do such an honorable gentleman a service. (Laughter.) When the time for settlement came Arton brought from Floquet a request in reference to payments to newspapers. As I did not wish to give more than 300,000 francs, however, I declined to do usulessed bonds marked in the corner with the letter F.' and when the total should reach 300,000 francs, expenditures on this account must cease. "Loud and prolonged laughter.)

"Was all this before the voring of the bill?" asked Desjardins.

"Certainly," replied De Lesseps.

De Lesseps's bearing on the stand today was remarkably different from his hearing during the recent trial. Then he impressed the andlence and the court as having been a mere agent for his father and having been overweighted with responsibilities beyond his ability. Today he was apparently frank and was plucky even to the point of insolence in his conduct toward the court. He showed that he was wary and hard-headed and often turned off with remarkable skill when points were made against him. He spoke in a familiar tone as if with the view to impress the jury in his favor and to throw the whole odinm of the Panama scandal upon the government.

Examin Hughes was stealing a ride on passenger train No. 11. They were on the platform of the mail car and with them were two negroes. When the train was nearing the passenger station all of them attempted passenger station all of them attempted to jump off. Hughes leaped and struck his head on a crosstie. He was knocked senseless and was discovered dying near the track. Langston and the negroes leaped at the same time and it is thought he was in some way or other tripped by the negroes and fell between the wheels where he was ground to pieces.

coinville on Saturday night last, in which Mr. and Mrs. Twietmann, a young married couple, were murdered.

Johnson was captured near the scene of the murder by three Charleston detectives.

Johnson, it is said, was last seen in Twietmann's store on Saturday night. He was traced to a place near Lincolnville about daylight and was at once put on a train and brought to this city.

Not a moment too soon, for as soon as the rumor of his arrest spread there was an uprising of the residents of Lincolnville with the object of lynching him. The jail in Charleston is impregnable against any efforts at lynching, should such an attempt be made. It is said that Johnson has confessed and that he implicates three other persons, a negro, a half-breed and a white man, on whose tracks the detectives are now hot. The inquest is now in progress at Lincolnville.

The Recent Victory of the Conservatives at Grimsley.

London, March 8.—The meeting of conservatives at Cariton Club today was thronged by the lenders as well as the rank and file of the party's parliamentary representatives. The occasion was one of intense interest, for every one was anxious to know what course would be taken in regard to the growing disantisfaction with Balfour's lenderable. It there was any disposition to mutiny, it failed to develop into action. The meeting was not only harmonious, but enthusiastic, and it was evident that the unionist victory at Grimsby had come opportunely to revive and reinvigorate the spirits of the despondent.

Lord Randolph churchill quited all surmises and hints as to any purpose on his part to supersede Balfour, declaring that his best efforts would be given to the support of Balfour as leader of the party in the house of commons. This announcement was greeted with loud and hearty cheers.

Other prominent conservatives spoke cordially in behalf of vigilant, active and united opposition to Gladstone's Irish home rule bill, and every utterance in favor of strong and harmonious opposition was greeted with evidences of enthusiasm. The meeting lasted one hour and ten minutes and its result was regarded by the conservatives as eminenty satisfactory. The conservatives have unanimously decided to move as an amendment to the motion for a second reading of the home rule bill, that it be read six months hence.

crowded this morning, the occasion being the opening of the trial of ex-Minister and Deputy Antonin Proust. Deputy Dugue de DaFauconnerie, Senator Beral, ex-Deputy Gobron and M. Blondin, Charles de Lesseps, Marius Fontane, ex-Minister Baihaut and Sans Leroy on charges of corruption in connection with the Panama lottery bonds bill. Among the spectators were Clemanceau, Eugene Spulier and Floquet, former president of the chamber of deputies, as well as several members of the committee of inquiry of the chamber of deputies delegated to watch the trial.

Sixty witnesses had been summoned. De Lesseps, Marius, Fontane and Baihaut, exminister of public works, had been brought to court under guard. Baihaut looked worn and depressed and the others had an air of embarrasment and distress. The indictment sets forth that a note had been found among the papers of De Lesseps showing that Baihaut asked 1,000,000 francs for introducing the Panama bill in the chambers of deputies on June 17th and on the same day De Lesseps issued two cash vouchers, the amount which Fontane received on the following day. On 'receiving the money Fontane immediately handed 250,000 francs to Blondin, who took the money to Baihaut at the senate chamber. On June 21st Blondin paid Baihaut the further sum of 125,000 francs. Baihaut, after at first denying these facta, finally admitted them, and also admitted that he had applied sums of 12,000 and 5,000 francs by detailing the

New Orleans, March 8 .- (Special.)-Fitzsimmons whipped Hall in twelve minutes tonight and it was the worst licking Hall has ever had or that Fitz has even given any one. Nearly 7,000 people saw the fight and every one was pleased with the work. There were some however, who were greatly displeased cause the fight did not last longer. The $25 ticket holder and the $150 box hold found the fun very high priced indeed.

The indictment concludes by detailing the various charges against Fontane and De Lesseps, who were accused of bribing Baihaut, and also of having induced Arton and the late Baron Relinach to corrupt senators and deputies. Baihaut is accused of having received money for performing an act in the execution of his duty, ergarding which he was not entitled to payment. Bloudin is charged with being a party to the corruption of Baihaut. Arton, who is not under arrest, is included in the indictment on the charge of corrupting legislators, and Deputy Sans Leroy is charged, like Baihaut, with having received money to influence his action as a public official.

Charles de Lesseps in reply to questions of Judge Desjardins, recounted his experience in endeavoring to induce the government to introduced in the chambers a bill authorizing the issue of lottery bonds. Herz and made a direct demand for money and De Lesseps had seen evidence that Herz was too powerful to be denied. "We could not make an enemy of a sleeping partner in La Jundice, Chemenceau's paper," said De Lesseps. Experience in a previous Issue of lottery bonds had taught that "We were obliged to protect ourselves or be the victims of all sorts of "plotters. The subscriptions came to nothing. Then financiers showed us how to resort to those methods which are now matters of general knowledge. They said, 'Unless you pay money to all banks under the influence of Girardin you will have all the newspapers in Parisagnist tou." We still held our sgains which we were finally driven to paying out enormous sums, right and left. We were forced to avail ourselves of this sort of assistance, and this mode of procedure was encouraged by the government."

"Leave government alone," called Judge Desjardins sharply. Fitzsimmons has always been a great favorite in this city and nearly every one here wants him to win, but there was some of Fitzsimmons's warmest admirers declare that he has a yellow streak in him and that he will prove an early and quiet quitter if Hall starts out with a good, hard, rushing fight. It is even said that Fitzsimmons was jump in the romes and says himself. mons may jump the ropes and save his by a hard, industrious, honest flight, the fight only can prove this assertion

"Leave government alone," called Judge Desjardins sharply.

A slight arplause and a storm of protests from the audience greeted this admonition.

Judge Desjardins tried to speak again, but was interrunted with the cry, "Why not the government?" "Give us the truth."

Eventually order was restored by preparations to clear the courtroom. A demand was made on behalf of Minister Balbaut by Blomdin and after one million frances had been paid Blondin, Balbaut introduced the bill. The story of Reinach's demands was like the preceding ones, except that they had been reststed until De Freycinet sent for De Lesseps and advised that he placate Reinach. Floquet and Clemenceau also advised De Lessens to avoid a rupture with Reinach. the fight only can prove this assertion.

After Fitzsimmons reached the hotel he left for the clerk's office, accompanied by Charley Mitchell and Tom Allen. There before Judge Lazarus he took out his first naturalization papers and made affidavit that he wanted to become a citizen of America. For these papers Fitzsimmons paid the munificent sum of 30 cents, and it was old Tom Allen who handed over the quarter. munificent sum of 30 cents, and it was old Tom Allen who handed over the quarter and the nickle. As the clerk handed up the receipt Fitzsimmons accepted it with a smile, saying, "If I can't win under the United States fing I can't win at all, but win or lose, this country will always be my home." There was no crowd around to applaud Fitzsimmons's patriotic speech and his words would never have been preserved but for the innocent phonograph in the corner of the clerk's office, which has taken many a nickle through its slot this afternoon for the sake of the repetition.

Throughout the day Fitzsimmons has been at home to his friends. He has been nervous and restless and has moved about a great deal. He was evidently apprehensive of the result and could not help showing it. His actions lost him many friends, too.

Looking for the Dollars.

Hall was quiet in his quarters all day except between 10 and 12 o'clock. Succe how Hall feared that the club would not pay the purse and shortly after 10 o'clock quietly entered a carriage and drove to President Noel's office.

The president was in and gave Hall and his associate a cordial greeting. Before sitting down, however, he remarked: "Mr. Noel, I would like to see a certified check for the amount of the purse for which I am to work tonight."

President Noel was astonished at the request and so stated.

"But," said Hall, "I want to know that I will get my money if I whip that fight." He then declared that he had not been given the reception in New Orleans has been showing Fitzsimmons.

President Noel seemed to understand the situation, and, entering the carriage with Hall, drove to the bank, where the certified check was shown him. There was but two things that check needed to make it worth the money for which it called for and that was the writing of the name of the payee and his endorsement.

At the Bing Side. Floquet and Clemenceau also advised De Lesseps to avoid a rupture with Relnach. "They were very polite about the matter, "said De Lesseps. "They did not take me by the nape of the neck, but they all said about the same thing as to the necessity of granting Relnacu's demands."

De Lesseps denied that he knew that any of the money paid out by him to Relnach was to be used in bribing officials whose hames were found on the stubs of proper checks. Reinach, he said, used the Panama money to pay his personal debts. Questioned as to his celations with Arton, the lobbyist, De Lesseps said:

that was the writing of the name of the payee and his endorsement.

At the Ring Side.

The fame of the contestants was such as to give both an unquestioned right to the championship form, but it was not alone in the reputation of the men that fight before the Crescent City Athletic Club acquired its greatness. Nover before was such a sum at stake on the issue of a single fight—a purse of $40,000 and a stake of $10,000 a side made the enormous sum of $60,000 dependent on the result. Six thousand pairs of eyes were eagerly strained toward the arena as the principals, with their seconds and followers, took their places in opposite corners. It may be questioned if two such magnificent specimens of physical manhood had ever faced each other, so equally matched in the prize ring. Men larger than either of them had from time to time won more or less fame in the fistic arena, but it was not a matter of bulk alone. Both men were veritable giants, yet they were not great in bulk. There could not be any doubt as to which of the pair would have been the favorite in an assembly of artists. Hall, inll, broadshouldered and darker in the pale rays of the electric light than his opponent, looked Fitz Arrives. Fitzsimmons came into the arena a few minutes after 8 o'clock and was given an ovation. The crowd had been gathering then for more than three hours but there were not over 3,000 people then present. Nearly every one in New Orleans knew immons by sight and as he walked agh the main entrance and passed nd the walk leading to the dressing the entire crowd arose almost as a an and gave a hearty greeting to the late made American. Hall's Turn. Hall came to the clubhouse at 8:30 was well filled when he came in and it was a royal reception he had. Even thou who had yelled for Fitzimmons yelled as Hall came through the house. Into the Ring.

The fight began at 9:20 o'clock and end-

Hall came into the ring first and beside him on his right was Charley Mitchell, while on his left was Squire Abingdon. Close behind Hall was Jack McAuliffe with John Cline, who was time keeper for Hall. Hall was enveloped in a big ulster and as he took his chair in the corner, Gibbons occupied last night, the squire dopped into the pit behind. It is a question whicher the ovation tendered was given Hall, Mitchell or the squire, anyhow Hall acknowledged it by a gracious bow which swept around ne house. Two minutes later Fitzsimmons came in carrying in his hand a big American flag This he waved over his head wildly and the house went wild in return. It may have been the flag and it may have been ons the crowd was cheering. Fitzsimmons went to the corner Daley had last night.

As he sat down he planted the American flag over his corner and bowed his ac-knowledgement to the crowd. He was followed by his seconds, Frank Bosworth, Martin Julian and his brother, Billy Fitzmmons. D. F. O'Mallery was his time keeper. As Fitzsimmons sat down he glanced at his opponent fiercely. Duffy, the referee, called the men up and explaine the rules under which they were to fight. Then, after the two men had shaken hands they retired to their corners.

As they went back Duffy followed Hall, and, reaching his corner, took Mitchell by the hand and led him to the middle of the ring, saying: "I desire to introduce to you Mr. Charley Mitchell, the champion of England." The crowd yelled and Mitchell, who is a handsome fellow, bowed to the audi-ence. Then Duffy introduced Jack Mc Anliffe, the champion light weight. Down to Their Knittin'.

At the tap of the bell the two men came ns's trunk was red and his up. Fitzsimmons's trunk was red and his belt was an American flag. Hall wore a blue trunk.

They shook hands in the orthodox old time fashion, both men coming to the scratch with a jauntiness which showed their seeming lack of care. They commenced work a very cagy manner until Fitzsimmons finally led with a left and fell short of his mark, Hall's left on counter barely touching his face. Fitzsimmons was the mos active of the two and he set a lively pace by doing all the leading and landing fre-quently with his left on Hall's body. Hail was slow and did not succeed in landing a single blow with effect. Hall was full of confidence, and, while he did not go into hard fighting, he was excusable, owing to the fact that he was kept so busy dodging and warding off Fitzsimmons's blows, that he had no time to show the people his great ability as a hitter. Fitzsimmons was quick and judged his distance so admirably that he landed almost every blow he delivered with great accuracy. Hall received some stinging blows in the ribs, but he was so thoroughly trained that they had little or no effect. The aggressive manners of Fitzsimmons rather took Hall, by surprise and made him realize that he had no easy task

The Second Round In the second Fitzsimmons still pursue his tactics and landed his right and left several times very hard on Hall's body. He also got in a good right and left on Hall's face. It was well towards the close of the round before Hall commenced to no means dangerous. Fitzsimmons had by far the best of this round. It was not until Hall succeeded in working Fitzsimmons into a corner, where he got in several good, stiff blows that he began to strike out freely. He showed up in such fine form towards the close of the round that a majority of the spectators began to have their doubts as to lanky Bob's ability to hold out against so powerful an op-ponent, as Hall was by far the strongest of the two. Both men did some very hard hitting and their blows fell upon each other like hail. Honors were pretty evenly di-vided, and many rather thought Hall had a trifle the best of the hitting. The men were mad, so vicious and ugly was the work and so angry were they that they refused to break away at Duffy's order. Duffy rushed between them and had all he could do to separate them. When the bell tapped Fitz seemed considerably worsted and Hall stock went up high.

The Third Bound.

At the call to center, Hall stepped briskly forward and led off with his left and caught Fitz square on the nose. The blow dazed the lanky man, yet he fought gamely and returned the compliment by sending his left hand on Hall's stomach. Hall landed again lightly on the neck; then both men clinched. By mutual consent they separ-ated, both laughing. Hall landed a right and left, reaching his big aniagonist on the body and neck. Content for a moment with this, Hall walked around the ring, Fitzsimmons following. Fitz missed a swinging right hander, but he planted his left on Hall's stomach. Hall got his left jab in on Fitz's face again, making the champion's head bob back. Hall followed the performance with a beautiful right and left hand blow on Fitz's head and side, but the big Australian got back most too far for the blows to do any damage. Fits re-The round ended by Fitz missing a stinging blow for Hall's stomach. The round was about a draw. Hall Knocked Out. The men were both in excellent condi-tion and full of fight when the gong sounded for the fourth round. They responded to the call like gladiators, and went at each other as though they intended to find the winner in short order, but they had scarcely warmed up to their work when Fitzsin landed that dangerous right of his on the point of the jaw, and Hall fell to the floor like a dead man. It was a hard fall, and the back of Hall's head came in contact with the floor with such a sickening thud that it could be heard all through the build-

More than half of the audience thought Hall had been killed. Physicians were called in and Dr. Dyer, an old Atlanta boy, responded. It took ten minutes to bring him around. The scene was the wildest that has been witnessed at the ringside for many years. Bob caught up the American flag and waved it over his head like an Indian, while the crowd cheered and yelled like Hottentots, Fitzsimmons was declared victor, and the winner wore happy smiles.

The evation Fitzsimmons received

By the fight, Fitzsimmons is entrenched in the middle-weight championship.

"In fact." he continues, "I never felt better in my life. I am now stronger and heavier than when I fought Sullivan, so you can readily understand how absurd the story about my breaking down is. The report that I will be compelled to forfeit my $10,000 posted to fight Mitchedd is laughable. You can bet a brown stone house to a car horse that I will be at the right side when time is called unless I should die in the meantime. I am a strong healthy young fellow, however, and I think any life insurance company will issue a policy on my chances of being on hand to battle for the world's championship. Of course, I feel confident of beating the English champion, though I do not underrate his cleverness and well-known fighting ability. I will not, however, allow my confidence to interfere with my training. I will work hard, and go into the ring in condition to fight for a week if necessary. To show you how anxious I am to defeat Mitchell, it is only necessary for me to tell you that I am already doing a little preparatory work for the contest. I am gind this match is made, for it has been the amto tell you that I am already doing a little preparatory work for the contest. I am glad this match is made, for it has been the ambition of my life to meet the English champion, and now that I have got the chance, I will do my best to improve it. Before I begin training real hard I will probably take a trip to Niagara Falls and rest there a week, after which I will travel to Indiana and work faithfully to put myself in the best possible condition. Billy Delaney, who handled me so well for all my fights, will be my trainer. He is one of the ablest trainers in the world, and understands my wants thoroughly. Nineteen Freight Cars Plunge Into the Ottawa River.

Lima, O., March 8.—The most disastrous freight wreck that ever occurred on the Chicago and Erie road happened here this morning, at the bridge over the Ottawa river, about one mile west of the station. The third section of westbound freight train No. 83, with a heavy train, derailed a car at the switch before reaching the bridge, and when the bridge was struck the middle span of it gave away, and nineteen cars, with the caboose, were piled up in the stream, thirty feet below. The engine and several cars were all that passed over in the stream, thirty feet below. The engine and several cars were all that passed over safely. Fortunately the trainmen were all in front, except the conductor. He escaped by jumping. The conductor thinks there were three tramps in a box car, who got on at Kenton. If they were, they were ground to atoms. The cars were reduced to splinters, and only two or three of them can be repaired. All were loaded with merchandise.

Columbus, O, March 8.—Oliver Johnson, the colored youth, suspected of the murder of little Stanley Hott, made no new confessions today, but the police discovered what they affect to believe is blood on Oliver's scanty clothing. A cap, supposed to be the one worn by the missing boy, was found floating in the canal today. The only real developments in the case today was a story told by an employe of the Hocking Valley railroad to the officers. He said that on Friday evening, about 6 o'clock, he saw a number of boys stoning a smaller boy. A few moments after a freight train passed south, and he thought the gang might have thrown Stanley into an empty car and pulled the door shut. The railroader was taken to Oliver's cell, where he identified the prisoner as one of the gang engaged in throwing stones. Columbus, O, March 8 .- Oliver Johnson

Tax Receiver Anderson is all ready for the taking of returns April 1st. Values in Bibb county have shown a steady increase for several years past, and there will doubtless be a fair increase this year over that of last year's.

The Constitution had a talk this morning with Engineer Ficken, of the Southwestern railroad, who was one of the grievance committee of the Georgia Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which went to Savannah to confer with the officials of the Central road in regard to the signing of the contract for the new year. Engineer Ficken says the officials received them very courteously indeed and the engineers feel assured that the entire matter will be amicably and satisfactorily adjusted on the 16th when the committee and the officials are to meet Judge Speer in Macon. Chief Arthur will also, no doubt, be present. The engineers are perfectly satisfied to let the matter rest until the 16th. The case of Engineer Arden will also be discussed then, and the brotherhood believes that Mr. Arden will be reinstated. den will be reinstated Baseball in Macon

The superior court is still engaged in the trial of briminal cases. A very interesting case was that of Green Riley, charged with robbing the store of McGolrick & Co. It seems that the evidence of his guilt was conclusive. Three reputable white men gave testimony against Riley and there didn't seem to be a broken link in the strong chain of evidence against him. Riley had no witnesses whatever and only made his statement, in which he confessed to having served ten years in the penitentiamade his statement, in which he confessed to having served ten years in the penitentiary for burglary, but, on getting out, he swore to his God that he would never steal anything again and hoped heaven would paralyze him where he sat if he had ever stolen anything since leaving the penitentiary. After being out on the case about twenty-four hours, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Henry Harris, a negro, who is wanted for the murder of another negro at Leslie, on the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery railroad, some time in 1891, was captured by Mr. Fred Stoney, of Warwick, yesterday, and turned him over to the sheriff of Sumter county, who came down after him.

Seymore Harris, brother of Henry, who was wanted for assault and intent to murder, was captured some time ago by the same gentleman who gets, a nice reward for his trouble.

Sheriff Nelson, of Worth county, left here this morning, having in charge Jim and Cliff Kearce, who murdered an old negro in Worth county about ten years ago. There was only one eye witness to the crime, and as the Kearce boys had many friends, the witness, also a negro, was spirited away. For several years the case has been in Worth superior court, but has never come to trial on account of the absence of this witness. They were at liberty at intervals, until about three years ago when they agere arrested, pending the finding of Rich Singleton, the important witness. They have been in Dougherty county jail ever since with the exception of a few months. About six weeks ago Rich Singleton was captured and now is in jail at Thomasville, where he will remain until the fourth Monday in April, when Worth superior court will convene.

Athens, Ga., March 8.—(Special.)—Athens s again in serious trouble over her water

If a municipality ever had a Jonah in the world, it is Athens and that Jonah is waterworks. In this regard the city seems to be resting under a curse. For nearly two years this matter has bobbed up serenely almost every month in some shape or other, and when the agitation sets in. it usually develops some sort of enigma and sensation, and presents a form that nobody A few days ago it was announced in this

bles the waterworks matter had been definitely settled and in the city's favor and initely settled and in the city's favor and so everybody thought, and a general congratulatory and jollification ceremony was in order and freely indulged in. Mr. Howard Neely, the contractor for the construction for the new system, put on an additional force of workmen and announced that in a few weeks after all the Classic City would be blessed with the best water supply plant in the state, But another obstacle has appeared. It is an injunction that in a few weeks after all the Classic City would be blessed with the best water supply plant in the state. But another obstacle has appeared. It is an injunction suit brought in the courts of New York city, and the city attorney is there now fighting it, with uncertain results. The injunction proceedings were instituted by F. H. Smith, of New York, who holds $7,000 of the old water company's bonds, and were to enjoin the Mechanics' National bank of New York, from delivering the new issue of bonds recently sold by the city to build the new plant to the Equitable Mortgage Company or others. The declaration of the plaintiff alleges that the company in which he is interested, has the exclusive water franchise for the city of Athens for a long term of years yet. It is thought if the old water company is defeated in this latest desperate effort to injure Athens and protect its own property and the bonds are sold, the company officials will attack the money in New York and bring suit for damages in the courts of that city.

The old company is playing the boldest and most desperate game, ever undertaken, and, while defeat in the end is inevitable, they will yet give the city much trouble and retard the progress of the new works to the serious detriment of the city and the injury of the inhabitants. The people are much wrought up over the matter. The injunction case was to be called in New York today and City Attorney Rucker and Colonel A. H. Hodgson, of the finance committee, were there, but the case was postponed.

At the close of the work in the lodgeroom the whole party were invited to the Morrison house, where the grandest spread ever set before men in Jackson was partaken of. They were whued and dined in a truly Royal Arch style. The punch used on this occasion was made by those chiefs of mixers, Dr. R. G. Bryans and Colonel Y. A. Wright, and it was claimed to be the finest that ever gurgled down the throat of men. The magnificent dining hall of the Morrison house was thrown open at 12 o'clock and the happy patricipants remained at the table till 3 o'clock. All praise is extended and due Colonel Charley Gresham and his estimable lady for the grand entertainment.

Our Macon visitors were well pleased with the trip to this town and were, indeed, surprised to see the splendor of our little city and the metropolitan ways that pervade our entire surroundings, and left us today with assurances that they will visit us again at an early day.

A Fine Hotel in Plan, and the Certainty That It Will Be Filled by South Georgia and Florida People. A Lot Set Apart.

The views and experiences of Dr. Hawthorne, bearing testimony to the remarkable health and salubrity of Manchester, and printed in yesterday's Constitution, have been a subject of general comment upon the

As it is, hundreds of people

But the really remarkable record which Dr. Hawthorne has established for the curative and tonic properties of Manchester, pure air and glorious water has directed the attention of wide awake moneyed men to that model suburb, and there is talk today of an ample and commodious hotel out there, which would meet the demands of our southern neighbors and friends, and provide a summer resort where pure air and incomparable water would be joined to cultured society, educational advantages, and an almost perfect proximity to the advantages and attractions of Atlanta. It is believed that such a hotel would nay handsomely from the scart, and of Atlanta. It is believed that such a hotel would pay handsomely from the start, and that a snug fortune awaits the enterprising individual who will build and manage the hotel. The very prettiest and most eligible lots in Manchester have been reserved for this purpose, and the company stands ready to make liberal arrangements with any party who sees the profitable outcome and desires to build the hotel. There is always a great demand for houses and rooms to rent and places to board in Manchester, and when the colleges open in July and September, this demand will be multiplied manifold.

With a telegraph, telephone and post-office already established, an hourly train running on the West Point road, and an electric line on the way, Macon and Savannah and Thomasville people would find in Atlanta's suburb the place they long have sought.

Treatment of His Girl.
Willismsport, O., March 8.—Deputy Constable George M. Hampton arrested Scott McCafferty on a paternity charge yesterday at the home of his father, Dave McCafferty.
Three years are Scott who was the most the home of his father, Dave McCafferty.

Three years ago Scott, who was the most prominent young farmer in Monroe township, this county, was paying assidious attention to Miss Saille, the second daughter of ex-Mayor J. D. Andrew, of this place. It was a case of love too well and unwisely, and as a result of their intimacy the young lady found herself fast approaching motherhood. She sought her lover to request reparation as far as possible by marriage, but the gay and fickle Scott was mysteriously absent. It was generally understood that he was prospecting in different western states, principally Arkansas, but it is a well known fact that he never missed voting at an election at Five Points, a few miles north of here. Thinking his little escapade had been entirely forgotten, he grew more hold. The officers got wind of the matescapade had been entirely forgotten, he grew more bold. The officers got wind of the mat-ter, and he was nabbed.

He was given a hearing before officials in Circleville, and was bound over on two charges. Squire McCafferty went his bond. All parties concerned are well known, and the affair created considerable comment.

We have an answer pat for this

We do not believe any such thing! In discussing the proposed bond issu

But it is impossible suppose that Mr. Cleveland will fail em, so far as it may lie in his er, the pledges made in the democratic form. It is impossible to suppose that retary Carlisle, who has so frequently need his sympathy with the people. ould even dream of surrendering to the

There is not the slightest danger that money sharks can frighten or perde this democratic administration into aking a step against the interests of the e. In courage and common sense, it the strongest administration the couny has had since the war, and every er of it keenly feels his responsito the people. This is true of Mr. land and Mr. Carlisle in a special Mr. Carlisle, who will have charge the financial affairs of the nation, ws very well-none better-that the interests of the gold sharks and and forcers do not run parallel with of the people.

Our readers-our correspondent among cannot have failed to note that all cock-sure predictions in regard to action of Mr. Cleveland's administra n on the financial issue have come n the organs of the money power, predictions have run er to the clear declarations of the ratic platform. We should think not even the republican opponents the new administration would be ng to predict that it will lift up its ands to violate the pledges of that

We hear great talk in Wall street and environs about a financial grisis. Mr. isle knows that there is no financial isis except that which the gold sharks nd bond forcers are straining themselves stir up. We hear great talk about the Carlisle knows that there is not the est danger in trenching on a reserve was accumulated for the very pur of being trenched on whenever the dty may arise.

Mr. Carlisle's attitude on the silver on is a guarantee that he will not nder to the gold sharks, or use his er to advance their schemes. On the er question, he stands where all int silver men stand. He believes at the silver dollar should be as sound the gold dollar, and that it can be so by legislative action-first, by as of free and unlimited coinage, so at the good difference in value between and silver may be fairly determined; nd, second, by any change in the ratio t may be necessary to place the two ds on a parity.

We were told by the Wall street organs an extra session to repeal the an law unconditionally would be alled by Mr. Cleveland. The people ld welcome an extra session, for it ald give congress an opportunity to r the decks preparatory to instituting ariff reform. The latest intimations Washington, however, are to the ot that Mr. Cleveland does not regard e financial situation as serious enough authorize the calling of an extra

This means that the gold sharks have nfluence with the administration. It ossible, in the nature of things, at they should have any. Mr. Cleveand will carry out the pledges of the m in the interests of the people, nd in this he will have the hearty contion of all democrats.

Georgia's Appointment.

We trust that no democrat in Georgia o feels that his services in behalf of party deserve recognition, will be ed from putting in his application. ere are thousands of offices to be d, and they will mostly be filled by ats. Of the whole number-not ig the positions that must be filled the state-Georgia's share cannot be than three or four hundred. ng these are numerous co treds of other offices of a like that belong to the state's pro-

matter. The people have voted a cratic administration into power, and the fact that Mr. Cleveland is in favor of civil service reform is no sign that he will not give offices to democrats in preference to republicans, where changes can be made with a just regard to the civil service.

The republican interpretation of civil ervice reform is that a corrupt republican better than an honest democrat. Mr. Cleveland's interpretation is that only democrats who are honest and efficient should be rewarded with positions of trust. Offices can be regarded as spoils only when they are given out indiscriminately, partisanship being the test of fitness, and not honesty and efficiency. Therefore, we think that no honest and efficient Georgia democrat need hesitate to apply for office under Mr. Cleveland, for his administration will be not only essentially, but absolutely democratic.

The matter of most interest to us, so far as the offices are concerned, is not that any special democrat or democrats should be appointed, but that Georgia should have restored to her the proper and just apportionment of places that had been gradually wrested from her in the course of several republican administrations. The apportionment of all the southern states has in this way been taken from them and congested in the republican states for the benefit of corrupt partisans. In the case of Georgia, great injustice has been done in this matter to both democrats and native republicans.

Under Mr. Cleveland's administration it is to be hoped that the apportionment of places will be readjusted in accordance with the plan on which our system of government is based. This being done, we shall not take the trouble to inquire whether the places are filled by Georgia democrats or Georgia republicans. All we ask is that the rights of the state, in this direction, be restored. When this is done and the offices filled, only the madness of spoils can induce Georgians to ery for more

Meanwhile, so long as there are place to be filled in Georgia's apportionment there is no reason why Georgia democrats should not put in their applications.

The Craze of Speculation. When will the craze of speculation come to an end?

A story told in the news columns of The Constitution shows how deeply the cancer of speculation has eaten into the moral sense of the people. Rev. S. H. Buchanan, a man of pure life and tried integrity, was honored with the place of treasurer to the board of trustees of the Arkansas lunatic asylum. To the horror of his associates and the shame of the church, he was discovered to be a defaulter

And what was his explanation? A piece of property, worth $50,000, was on the market. He could purchase it for $20,000. Through a syndicate which he hoped to organize, he would get the narket value, $50,000, and thus clear $30,000 when he would replace the $20,-000 trust fund.

But a cog slipped in the arrangement and then came exposure. Another good man had gone wrong, and the enemies of religion were furnished with another weapon to use against it. When even the pulpit is not free from this besetting vice, what are we to think of the laity It is a pitiful story, indeed, and one which should contain a lesson.

The ready answer which is being made by Atlanta to the call for relief, which comes up from the storm-swept district, is consistent with her previous history.

It is characteristic of Atlanta to give expression to the feelings of the state. Her citizens have ever responded to every call that has been made upon them. The highest tribute to the character of the capital city is that, when misfortune strikes any part of Georgia, the people turn their eyes toward her for relief and

This fact is not noted for self-glorification, but to emphasize the truth that Atlanta is Georgia's typical city; that the hearts of her people beat warmly toward those of every other section, and that, in time of trouble, that fact is instinctively admitted.

All that goes to make Georgia great and glorious finds in Atlanta fruitful soil: her people, who have builded a city from the ashes, are attached to their fellow citizens, and they never work half so hard as when in the interest of suffering humanity in Atlanta or elsewhere.

When the first news came that relief vas needed in the track of the late storm, the people responded liberally, and the bulk of the funds raised was sent to Greenville. That was because it was supposed to be the center of the destitute

Later advices, however, show that the afflicted territory is much wider than was at first supposed. For many miles, every house has been swept away, and the neonle are without food or covering They are Georgians, bone of our bone and their cry should not go unanswered

Yesterday a committee reached the city from Barnesville. They told a pitiful story of the destruction in Pike county. They look to Atlanta for help, with condence that it will be given.

Sherman's Weakness.

John Sherman recently remarked in peech in the senate that "the secretary of the treasury had been authorized by subsequent act to retain at least $100; in gold in the nature of a redemption fund."

The New York Sun takes the trouble to nuote this, and to remark that it is abso utely and entirely false. It was hardly ecessary to make this statement. Since rman engineered through congress the act of demonetization, in 1873, is career has been a perfect whirl of alsehood and false pretences. We pre-

If The Sun is interested in this lamentable phenomenon, we advise it to hunt up Sherman's explanations of the act of demonetization made after the act was passed. Right there was the beginning of this habit which has grown until it covers everything this great republican

When to Marry.

A German statistician has been bothering himself about the question as to when people should marry.

In the first place, he holds that the mother in her teens is an abomination. No woman should marry until she has crossed her twentieth year. Children born of mothers under twenty die in treble the proportion of those whose mothers are above that age.

This spectacled professor also raises the limit of age on men. The father who has not raised his first mustache should confined in an asylum for imbeciles. By law, men should be prevented from marrying until they have reached the age of twenty-five. The best results in children are seen among fathers whose ages range from thirty to forty.

Women under thirty years of age should not marry men who have passed fifty. The professer quaintly adds that "it is not wise for women over thirty-five years of age to become the brides of men under thirty."

But what is the use of all this? Not only is love blind, but the lover as well, and when the notion seizes the heart, there is nothing that can prevent the marriage from taking place. Editor Halstead has now blossomed out as a political prophet, using the most fiery and blistering language that can be found in Editor Medill got out an edition of his able Chicago newspaper in Washington the other day. This fact leaves the impression of a double shuffle in a stately cotillon.

WATSON'S FUTURE.

He Will Be Home from Washington The Week. Tom Watson, the dramvile will be home tomorrow or the day after, but the restless little fellow low not promise 10 stay very long.

He is an ex-congressman, a statesman out of a job, now and as he is of no earthly use in Washington he is coming gack to Georgia to talk and write. He has not yer completed his plans for the future, but it is understood in a general way that he is to assume entire control of his paper. The People's Party Paper, which is published in this city, and give the people of Georgia some blood red and extremely hot newspaper writins.

Incidentally he will make speeches over the state, deliver lectures and now and then run up to Washington. It is understood that he is to make a third race for congress two years hence, and it is supposed that he will look after his fences between editorials.

Tom's promised newspaper career is about the most interesting thing about the pessimistic statesman now. He has developed, through much practice, into a vivid writer, and he has all the ugly adjectives at his tongue's end. It is feared that in his leisure moments he will write another book. His friends say he gathered material enough while in 'ongress for several books. His first book has not entered upon its second edition, and as a matter of fact the first edition has not been exhausted yet. But the only way Tom can get before the public is to write, and he may get out another book.

the public is to write, and he may get out another book.

The People's Party Paper survived the big democratic landslide last November, but it is said that a big pile of money has been sunk in the enterprise by Mr. Watson. He has put up the stuff from the first and is continuing to pay its bills. Besides this he has been doing nearly all the editorial work. He furnishes a three-column funny letter from Washington each week and any amount of editorial matter. When Mr. Watson gets here he will probably write even more than he does now. His paper is being published around on Whitehall street at the old third party headquarters. The place is a deserted spot nowadays. Mr. D. J. Sanders holds the fort there as he has done for nearly a year past. He said yesterday that Mr. Watson's plans for the future had not been matured yet, but he thinks he will go to congress again.

Watson hasn't stopped his old way of writing, as the following extract from him will show:

"Our people are very patient. Exceedingly ing, as the following extract from him win show:

"Our people are very patient. Exceedingly patient. Wonderfully and surpassingly patient.

"If the crimes against humanity, justice and honor which I have seen committed insolently and openly here by professed friends of the people continue to go forward unchecked by warnings, the day will inevitably come when the long enduring masses will rise in a bursh of uncontrollable wrath, and such men as Livingston, Macune, Terrell and J. Found Tillman will cry aloud for mountains under whose eternal cover they can hide their guilty heads."

Eight Hundred People Are Homeless in the County.

THE CYCLONE KILLED

And Two Hundred Men, Women and Ohildren Are Maimed-Many of Them Must Die.

The story of last week's cyclone, and the destruction it carried in its path while passing through Pike county, were given prominence yesterday when a committee came to Atlanta to tell of the loss of life and property, and the suffering now existing there. Colonel Tom Barrett, who was in the legislature two years ago, was the spokesman for the committee which had been ap pointed the day before at a meeting of citizens beld in Barnesville. He reports that twelve people were killed outright by the terrible storm and fifty more received injuries which will prove fatal. Two hundred people were worsded in Pike alone, 120 houses were blown down and 800 people were left homeless.

"I have been all over the track of the cyclone, back and forward, and it is almost apossible to picture the ruin and the suffering," said Colonel Barrett. "I have seen war, and men killed, and the land filled with lamentations, but there were no women in the war. The cyclone spared no one. It was no respecter of persons. Mes- women and children, white and black, were killed and maimed. It came on us in the night about 9 o'clock or a little later. Me folks in the country are in bed at that ime. With a horrible roar, the storm swooped down on us. You could hear the passing of it for miles. The sky was lit up with lightning so that you could read The Constitution all over the county pretty much. This cyclone seemed like a great mountain of fire doing a round dance across the country. It was revolving furiously, and moving ahead at a great rate of speed. Before the unfortunates knew that danger was near, the storm was upon them. Nobody had a chance to get away. It was like war time. You didn't have time to get behind the breastworks or in bomb proofs just when the greatest danger came. There may have seen some pits in the section, but there was no warning to get into them. House were caught in the tornado and suck right up off the ground, or crushed in, often before the inmates could get out of bed. And when they did run for protection, they did not help themselves. The sadest case was that of Miss Annie Hawkins, daughter of Ed Hawkins, a farmer. She was a grown young lady and a lovely young woman. In her alarm she ran to her father. He clasped her in his arms, and just as he did, the house collapsed and they were buried in the debris. She was killed almost outright and his bones were broken in every part of his body. I helped to take by part of his body. I helped to take the first of the part of his body timbers, and his child was locked the his embrace. He con not release diad body until we took all the tim-

Remember that the path of this cyclone was a mile wide on the of this cyclone was a mile wide on the average. I never saw one that was so wide before. The people turned out and worked all night along the path of the storm. Those of us who escaped turned in to assist our neighbors all we could, which was not much. It was pitiable to hear the cries and wails and calls of parents for their children, and the cries of the little folks for their fathers and mothers. It was a heartrending night. We carried the wounded for long distances, as I said, and some long distances, as I said, and some and mangled bodies. The poor women and children were scantly clad, and they suffered much from the cold and the rain, to say nothing of the shock and the pain. Doctors were few and we just had to do the best we could."

The killed were: Mrs. N. Feltz, a widow at Molena.

James McCord, a farmer, and his child.

Andrew Leve. a farmer.

Miss Annie H., wkins.

Three negroes on Baker's place, one on Dr. Harp's place and three in the eastern part of the county.

The most of these were killed instantly or lingered only a short time. Levere had his neck broken, and some of the others were crushed to death at once. In every instance there were other members of the families who escaped death, but mighty few came out of the storm unhurt. People on the other side of the cyclone track thought that their time had come too. The fury of the storm was terrible to behold. The air was filled with a million flying fragments of houses, she churches, fences and trees. These were outlined against the sky under the vivid sheet of lightning.

"My home was about a mile from the edge of the proper path of the storm. I thought every minute that my house would be sucked in the whilrpool. That was almost as alarming as the actual sensation of being in the middle of it, I imagine," said Colonel Barrett.

"The wind blew terrifically a mile away from where the destruction was being done. I got up to see what it was, and no one who saw that mountain of fire rushing through the night will ever forget the spectacle. The debris collected by that whirlpool of wind was scattered over miles. The cyclone came straight across the county from the west side, where it came out of Meriwether across the Flint river. It moved down the timber as though a scythe had cut across there. Thousands of acres of fine wood were mowed over. It went half way up the Buzzard Mountain, and swept through the rabbits were blown out of their holes and killed. Corn cribs, corn, wagons, farming impliments and fodder are scattered all over the country. I went up on Buzzard Mountain, and swept through the rabbits were blown out of their holes and killed. Corn cribs, corn, wagons, farming impliments and fodder are scattered

The people are poor and are not able to stand the losses brought upon them, says Colonel Barrett. They did not save a thing. All their clothing was carried off and they have nothing except that which the neighbors gave. Two towns were struck in Pike county, Piedmont and Molena. A number of wounded will die from their injuries and some were barely alive when the committee left to visit Atlanta. The other members of this committee are Mr. J. J. Rogers and Mr. J. W. Safford, Mr. Safford could not come yesterday and his son, W. J. Safford, represented him. These gentlemen called on the gentlemen who are in charge of the collection here.

The committeemen appealed for a share of the funds and clothing contributed by Atlanta. They also called on some of the clergymen and asked that a collection be taken up on Sunday in Atlanta's churches to rebuild the churches blown down in their county. There were eight of these. Six school houses were destroyed. The committeemen requested The Constitution to ask the congregations to give what they can on Sunday for this fund. "Our people will do all they can, but they are poor and cannot begin to relieve the distress, which is so wide spread and beyond our means."

Colonel Barret says that the county has been visited by two severe cyclones before this one came along, but neither of the two was more than a quarter of a mile in width and spared nothing in its course.

Being asked if the end of it had been found, he answered that it went out of Pike into Monroe and for all he knew kept on to the Atlantic ocean and he suspected that it is out at sea now.

Zebulon, the county seat of Pike, is about six miles from the nearest point touched by the violent part of the storm.

The wonder is that any one caught in the path escaped, yet many did. Their experiences are thrilling to hear. Some people were picked up and carried along with the storm and dropped without being killed.

Two or three churches were built, several storehouses were erected, a dozen or more homes went up in what was formerly the suburbs or outer fields, and the little town was supposed to be on a big boom.

The people were beginning to think that times were brightening, and so they were all to a unit contented and happy. This was in spite of the fact that a raging fire had taken away one or two of their homes, and that money during the fall of the year was as scarce in Molena as it was in other parts of the country. Everything conspired to make the people cheerful, and they were proud of the strides which they were making in the world.

But the cyclone that swept over the country last Friday night happened to strike Molena full in the face. Half of the town was swept away, several of the public buildings were destroyed, including the churches and the schoolhouse, all of which were entirely new and this in addition to churches and the schoolhouse, all of which were entirely new, and this, in addition to a large number of homes.

Molena's Appeal.

The citizens of the county have held several meetings to raise a relief fund. The people of Molena met on Monday and appointed a committee to take charge of the relief. This meeting was presided over by Professor J. N. Brooks.

After Thirty Years He Writes Home for His Sister.

After thirty years a brother and sister will meet in this city in a few days through the efforts of Chief Connolly.

Yesterday Chief Connolly received a letter from Robert Tinsley, a sailor, belonging to the crew of the Phidias, asking for information concerning his sister, Mrs. Eliza Hamil, whom he had not seen in thirty years.

Tinsley stated in his letter that he ran away from Atlanta thirty years ago when quite a boy, and had seen none of his relatives since. At that time his father was in business on Whitehall street. Since that time he has met with many adventures and has cruised over many seas. Last week his ship touched New Orleans, and in a fit of homeslekness the prodigal decided to write to Chief Connolly to find if his sister is still living.

After receiving the letter Chief Connolly detailed Cail Officer Beavers to search for the lost sister. After a short while Beavers located Mrs. Hamil in the eastern part of the city. She was extremely delighted to hear from her long lost brother, and will write to him at once to come home. It was like a message from the dead to receive a letter from her long lost brother.

The services were solemn and appropriate, and after a reading of the scripture and a beautiful prayer of consolation, the song, "Nearer My God to Thee," was sung.

The following gentlemen acted as pall-bearers: Messrs. Mark, Ben, Charles, Henry and Turner Goldsmith and Mr. Heard Respess. The interment occurred in Oakland cemetery.

A Central railroad man says that, in the event of a strike, there would be a large number of the members of the labor organizations who would not go out. There is an impression that Judge Spee will not sign a contract with any organiza tion, and the general officers will not go against the judge's advice. The Central being in the hands of the court, the situation is complicated. A strike would be a more serious affair than if the road was not in a receiver's hands. If the engineers were to go out, the fight would have some unusual features. The management has decided on its course, evidently; but just what that is is kept secret. The general character of it, however, is suspected from some chance remarks dropped by the general superintend-ent and the receiver. Mr. Comer is quoted as saying that he understood the engineers and they understood him, and he did not think that there would be a strike. This is taken as a significant remark.

It was rumored yesterday that Engineer Arden will not be reinstated. The management believes, according to the rumor that Grand Chief Arthur will acknowled that Arden was in the wrong, and not to be excused. However, the whole situation will stand as it is for another week. ANN ARBOR'S STRIKE.

Brotherhood Engineers Ordered to Quit

Work By Chief Arthur. Toledo, O., March 8.-Ann Arbor railroad brotherhood of engineers and firemen went out this morning at 6 o'clock, in obedience to instructions of Chief Engineer Arthur. The strikers furnished crews for the mail train and that is the only train that has left here today. Chief Arthur has instructed the head of brotherhood lodges on the various connecting lines not to handle any Ann Arbor business. Reports from all divisions show that all the men are out and that everything is tid up. There is a probability that for trike will extend to other roads.

Will Not Handle the Freight. Grand Rapids, Mich., March 8.—Engineers on the Grand Rapid, roads intersecting the Ann Arbor road say they will refuse to handle freight from that road de-livered to them by "scab" crews. There has been no action by the brotherhood here to that effect.

The Central railroad's surgeons have returned from their annual meeting held in Savannah on Tuesday. They had a delightrul trip and heard some good papers read by Rockmore was willing enough to go, as he will be nearer home. He has been a quiet prisoner, and with the exception of a single instance he has given the jailers no trouble whatever. That exception was the time when thirteen prisoners joined in an attempt to escape from jail, following the plan which was and his associates.

Rockmore will not be tried until June, at which time the regular term of the superior court convenes at Decatur. It is not thought now that he will hang. Developments which operated to secure his respite, and later a new trial, will probably secure his escape on a small sentence. He is being defended by Messrs. Stewart & Ripley and Mr. L. P. Rarnes.

Whose Harness?

On last Friday, after a chase of five miles, Mounted Patrolmen Sewell and Hamilton and Sargeant White captured Will Brown, a slick thief. They recovered from him one pair of harness and a coachman's uniform.

HOW THE TWO TICKETS GOT OUT.

Some Excitement May Follow-There Will Be an Entertaining Meeting, Sure.

There will be a meeting of the Peidmon Driving Club this afternoon at 4 o'clock. It is for the purpose of electing officers for the club whose term shall be for the ensuing year. The regular meeting for this purpose was to have been held day before yesterday, and was held, but was for pewhen the meeting was called to order and the matter of the election of officers came up there seemed to be but one ticket in the field, and one would have thought there would have been no excitement or concern about the affair at all.

The ticket mentioned was as follows:

For president, Humphreys Castleman; for vice president, John W. Grant; for directors, Henry A. Inman, J. R. McKeldin, J. W. English, Jr., John F. Ryan, R. F. Maddox, Jr.

The last two names for directors in the club were placed there to fill the places now held by Messrs. Wilmer Moore and Quintard Peters, whose terms expire this year, according to a system of representa-tion on the board of directors adopted by the club previously.

Just as the meeting approached elections and everyhody thought the thing would pass off quietly and with no opposition, Mr. Jack Spalding arose and moved that there be held a called meeting today for the purpose of electing new officers, as there appeared to be about $1,000 spent by the present management that had gone out without compliance to the rules laid down by the constitution and by-laws of the club. President Castleman stated that the debt of the club was due simply to the fact that the members were behind with their dues. If they would pay up promptly he declared there would be money in the treasury instead of a debt against the club.

The motion to have the election was postponed, however, and that is why the meeting has been called to hold forth today.

The following notice of the called meeting has been sent out by the secretary.

DR. HATHAWAY & CO.,

This was a surprise in store for the friends of Mr. Humphreys Castleman, whose name had appeared on the ticket for re-election to the presidency yesterday, when along with the notice to attend the meeting the members received in the same mail another ticket as follows:

For President—R. J. Lowry.

For President—John W. Grant.

For Directors—A. E. Thornton, Henry Inman, Grant Wilkins, J. R. McKeldin, John F. Ryan.

This brought on a sensation among the members of the club. It was a surprise to the friends of the president, for there had been but one ticket at the first meeting and that ticket was his own. It will bring out a fight in the meeting today, when it was confidently expected that the election would pass off peacefully and harmoniously. Mr. Castleman was very much surprised yesterday when he received in the mail a copy of the new ticket all printed out with due care and deliberation. He says that he went to Captain Bob Lowry before he made up his mind to run for the place and saked him to task for re-election. He, therefore, thinks that Captain Lowry has not been instrumental in having the new ticket placed in the field.

"I wish you would say," said Mr. Castleman yesterday, "that at the meeting tomorrow a full statement of the club's affairs and a comparison between the pass year with the year before will be made. The present officers feel that the showing is one of credit to their administration.

There was some talk of additional gold shipments by next week's European steamers. Reading and New England were especially weak among railways, the former declining 17-8 to 27-8, and later 25-8 to 25. As a rule prices yielded 1-4 to 1 per cent on early trading, but a recovery set in when American Sugar rose from 120-5-8 to 123-5-8, and Manhattan from 158-1-2 to 103. The advance brought a number of stocks above last night's closing, the greatest gain having been 13-4 in National Cordage to 61-1-4. Western Union sold up from 94 to 95-1-2. In late transactions Sugar ran off over two points from the highest, and everything else yielded 1-4 to 1-1-4 per cent in sympathy. NEW YORK, March S.—The declaration of a dividend of 10 per cent extra on Sugar and a 3 per cent regular dividend, making the stock at 12 per cent dividend stock for the court year. brought in some buving orders in S. are and the shorts were the principal buyers during the morning. Still it must be gaid that there was sufficient long stock there today to meet all demands, and we think the reason of the declaration of this big dividend was to sell stock if enough buyers would come forward. Our opinion of this stock is that it will ultimately sell a great deal lower, specially as it has not had much of a decline yet and also for the reason that the stock is a poor collateral in loans. The general market was steady during the forenoon, and the shorts took in some of the stock sold some time ago, but during the afternoon a decided weakness cropped out in Reading and carried the other down with it to a limited extent. The main speculation with Reading now is, how much assessment will holders have to pay. We fear it will be a large one, as the hoating debt is very large, indeed. The other Coal roads will also, no allow, be the sufferers, as the Reading, in a receiver's hands, can afford to sell coal chester than the other roads. There were no further rumors about the bond issue, nithough one will undoubtedly be made in the next ten days. Still this is only temporary and will only help to stave off the crisis for a short period. We are still believers in lower prices for the market, basing our belief on the fact that money rates will again be high, and that the losses by the oulls have been so tremendous that they have lost their power for some time to come.

interrying cause of the long continued industrial isthargy in England is disclosed by the board of trade returns giving the exports of cotton goods from the United Kingdom for February. They are as follows-Yarus 18,000,000 pounds; last year 22,266,200 pounds; since January 1st, 28,201,000 pounds; last year 481,886,800 pounds. Cloths 342,666,800 yards; last year 481,886,800 yards; since January 1st, 722,386,200 yards; last year 386,956,300 yards. These figures disclose one of two things: Either the demand for cotton goods is far below what it has been, or supplies are very much exhausted. The latter supposition is hardly tenable in Great Britain which could easily be turned into cloths and yarns were it profitable to do so. After this week we shall run against a relatively lighter movement last year, and it is probable that a comparison of the figures may slightly increase current crop figures. Our Memphis correspondents telegraph us that as planting time approaches interior receipts will probably show an increase, as the farmers must rid themselves of the cotton they are holding in order to provide funds for the next errop. Factors are, it is said, exceedingly relaciant to advance money to invest in pork at present high prices. The market during the afternoon was dull and featureless, and the close was steady at about 8 points decline from last evening's figures. 8 points decline from last evening's figures.

Lehman Bros.' Cotton Letter. By Private Wire to B. W. Martin, Manager. NEW YORK, March 8—Liverpool today showed great weakness, opening at an advance of 3-64d, but before our opening it was 2-84d lower than last night. Here our opening it was 2-84d lower than last night. Here we opened off about 11 points. After the opening some southern inquiry caused a reaction of 8 points, the greater portion of which was lost before the close. There is nothing new in the position. The market tomorrow will be influenced solely by what we may hear in regard to what may take place at the conference in Manchester. A non-settlement of the strike will be a great disappointment, and will give us a lower market. The movement for the week at the ports now points to about 53,000 bales. Friday next Bradstreet's will issue a report giving the number of bales of cotton in 1,500 uncounted towns as compared with the stocks held'n year ago. This report will have no great bearing upon prices, but will be of interest.

The Opinion Is That a True Bill Will Be Found Against Miss Porce for Murder-The Hearing Today.

Will Julia Force be tried for the murer of her two sisters?

The question is still unanswered, as far as any definite action by the grand jury is concerned. Another day may possibly decide the matter, and by noon today the question may be settled.

The general opinion yesterday about the courthouse was that a true bill would be Among those who were summoned to testify as to the killing were Drs. The latter, it will be remembered, was the custodian of the manuscript which purported to give an exhaustive account of the whole affair from beginning to end. Miss Wright had been an intimate friend of Miss whole affair from beginning to end. Miss Wright had been an intimate friend of Miss Julia Force, especially for a few months before the tragedy. Several years prior to that time they had been associated in the mission work of St. Philips's church. Then, however, there was little friendship between the two, and Miss Force frequently stated that she did not admire her co-worker. They maintained a rather distant acquaintance for several years, and there stated that she did not admite her coworker. They maintained a rather distant acquaintance for several years, and there seemed to be no probability of any closer relationship springing up between them. A short while before the tragedy, however, it appears that Miss Force was inclined to cultivate the acquaintance of Miss Wright, and frequently invited her to her room.

This friendship went so far that prior to the act the manuscript was placed in the hands of Miss Wright, and she was made the only possessor of her confidence and the secret of her unhappy career.

Miss Wright was summoned for the purpose of throwing what light she could on the entire subject. It was probably the length of her testimony, as a very important witness in the case, that prevented a termination of the matter yesterday.

In addition to the witnesses already mentioned, there were also summoned the chamhormaid Luke Learner and the case.

In Payne's church, corner of Hunnicutt and Luckie streets, the spirit of revival is manifest, deepening with each service. Last Sabbath morning and night the large auditorium was almost literally packed. The pastor is preaching a series of sermons looking to a great revival—an old-time revival of religion. The songs, sermons and prayers for the coming Sunday will be on this line. He is arranging for the coming and effectual work of one of the most spiritual and successful pastors of the Holston conference. The members are in hearty sympathy and co-operation with the pastor. New York, March 8.—(Special.)—Miss Maude Madison, who recently made a sensation by appearing in a crinoline dance at Proctor's theater, has left that place of amusement in anger. Miss Madison said last night that she did not know that Miss Emma Jones was to do a crinoline dance at Proctor's until she read it in the papers Sunday. She was both angry and hurt. She at once notified Manager Davis that if Miss Jones was to appear she would not. Mr. Davis replied that Miss Jones would certainly appear and so Miss Madison did not report at the theater.

For the purpose of extending his already wide-world popularity, and with a desire consent to the many earnest requests mad from time to time by the friends and admirer of this progressive system, Dr. G. Karl Vircho Schick has leased the entire building, 100 North Pryor street, Atlanta, and will open the same to the public Thursday, March 2d, 10 o'clock a. m., at which time he will give to all those who desire consultation, advice examination and treatment for an entire month free of charge. Thus giving sufferer from all forms of chronic diseases personal attention, and thereby all the advantages of this new system, which has worked such mar velous cures in New York and surrounding country. Although the time and expense to him in giving this free treatment will cost him at least five thousand dollars, yet he feels that the number he will treat will be so large, the cures he will make will be so varied, the good he will do will cover so large a field, that the advertisement will be double what could be obtained with the expenditure of $10,000 in any other way. They also hope to bring to the notice of all invalids their elegant institute, as well as their especial system of practice. All they ask in return is that every patient so treated will appoint themselves a committee of one to state to all their friends the result obtained in their individual cases by the German system. So the him in giving this free treatment will all their friends the result obtained in their individual cases by the German system. All desiring to test the system will have such an opportunity for one month free of charge.

MUST HAVE THEIR PICTURES TAKEN.

Chinamen That Wish to Reside in th United States Should Take Immedista Steps to Do So.

If the Chinese registration law goes into effect, and there is no reason why is should not, the number of Chinamen in the United States, in general, and in Atlanta in particular will be very limited.

Sometime last year a bill was put through congress which calls for the registration of every Chinaman of good standing that wishes, to remain under the protection of the es, to remain under the protection of the stars and stripes, will have to have his photo struck, get a couple of citizens in good standing to swear that he is all right, go through a little more red tape, and then settle down to washing shirts.

Up to the present time, in the entire United States, there have been less than a dozen registered. One of these was in Cincinnati, and he was rewarded by having his picture in the morning papers. A number of the Atlanta Chinamen have been notified of this law, but all of them pretend ignorance of the matter, claiming that they are unable to catch the gist of the state of affairs on account of their in-pretend ignorance of the matter, claiming that they are unable to catch the gist of the state of affairs on account of their inability to understand English.

The mode of procedure is not a very tedious one but it involves the expenditure of a couple of dollars, an event which seldom comes twice in the life of a pigtail. The department which handles this feature is that of a collector at present occupied by Mr. Walter Johnson. Numerous attempts have been made to get even one of the almond-eyed rice-eaters to go through with the requirements of the law in this particular, by way of setting an example.

But all to no avail.

In several instances, the collector was informed in very good pigeon English, that there was an interpreter on the way here from the north who would look into the matter for them. According to the law, the Chinaman must have three pictures taken. One of these is put on a special blank and forwarded to Washington, the second in pasted to a different form of blank and placed on file in the collector's office, while the third is returned to the original, also attached to a certificate. In order to get himself registered, the applicant must bring forward two respectable citizens, who take oath as to the Chinaman's residence and the length of time that he has resided in the city.

The form that is sent to Washington serves a double purpose. It gives the Washington officials a record, and should the registered Chinaman wish to take a trip to his native land, he can do so by showing his certificate, which is compared to the record in the Washington office, and all is well. It is only by his certificate that the Chinaman can return to this country.

A number of opinions have been advanced by the best logal talent in regard to the

A number of opinions have been advanced by the best legal talent in regard to the registration act, and by far the majority express the idea that it will become a dead letter issue the moment it comes into effect. Besides this, the Chinese government has hinted that retaliation is but the work of a few hours.

"What John Chinaman Thinks.

"Whatee want downee dis place?" were the words that were jerked out at a Constitution reporter, as he jauntily slid down thirteen steps and landed in front of a group of collar-washers, who were rapidly making away with a noon meal.

"What about this registration business," was the answer the Chinaman secured by his pigeon-toed utterances.

And then not a single one of them understood a word of English.

"What about my collars and cuffs that were to have been done today?" was the next question.

were to have been done today?" was the next question.

"Show what ticket you hab," answered the first speaker, his English considerably improved. After some more juggling, during which the reporter swore by Confucius and Tsai-Tsing, whoever he is, that he would not use any names, and he couldn't for he did not know any.

"All foolish thing," said the most talkative Chinaman, refering to the registration and picture matter, "what make you think we hab to do like dat for. If you make your fuss with us here, our fater in our place make some fuss for those folk in our place."

our place."

And with all the facts in the case it would appear that John Chinaman is perfectly correct in his deductions.

The natural way is the safest. Nature has an antidote for every ill that humankind is heir to. There is a great margin between the stock of Piece Goods and the exhibition. For one beautiful novelty that is seen there are scores upon the counters unseen.

And the shows of past seasons have been so far beyon any competing demonstration that it is hard to make still further improvement. But progress there must be, for there is no health without growth. And progress there is.
